4	Several years ago I asked for an en enhancement to allow me, the instructor, to ask a student into a private chat. I would like to simply double-click on their name and the will be invited to a chat with me. I am not sure of the difficulty involved but it would be of great benefit to be able to have such a feature. Sometimes I see a student logged into my ETUDES class and have something important to tall that student and I must email them and hope they read their email before logging off in hopes that they get back to me soon. Usually, it is of an urgent nature, something most likely involving a deadline for an assignment or survey. So, in a nut shell, I would like to be able to click on a students name and invite them into a private chat or ask them to enter the current chat room.	4/15/2014 9:55 AM
