II. Old Business

a) Green designation in the schedule of class:

L. Rosow and L. Polasek were in attendance for this discussion. L. Rosow distributed a handout to address what is meant by green-themed courses. In summary, the designation is meant to raise consciousness on campus regarding sustainability issues and it is a way to communicate to students there will be green references in the class. The committee still expressed the following concerns:

- i) there should be something in the course outline that includes green topics
- ii) lack of quality control or standard – what % of the class needs to be green before it gets the designation?
- iii) academic affairs does not allow for individual faculty to add things in the schedule specific for their sections – who would be responsible for determining which sections get the green designation?
- iv) the definition brought forward was too vague

The committee encourages the Sustainability Group to come up with alternative ways of getting the word out to students. This can be done through the group's web site, flyers, or other ways they can come up with.
