

Meet your Statistics Tutor Ivan!

Hello everyone! My name is Ivan, and I'm a statistics tutor here at LAVC. I currently attend college in the LACC district, and I plan on transferring to a four-year in the near future! My interests are vast and far reaching and I always love intellectual engagement; I am absolutely in love with the humanities and am planning on majoring in both political science and Spanish.

No tengo fluidez, pero puedo ayudar si necesitas hablar en español. ¡Quiero practicar!

I enjoy reading, cooking/baking, crafting, going on hikes, playing the guitar/piano/accordion, some video games- many of my friends have described me as "the least boring person" and I take that title with pride.

In my eyes, my job here on campus isn't to give you knowledge- my job is to guide you to your own understanding in a safe space. Sometimes I fail at this goal, but I want everyone to know that they are capable, important, and uniquely intelligent; we're not all the same, we don't all process things or understand them in the same way, and that's a good thing. I consider it my mission to help and support those that are in need of it, individually and societally. :)

"Quando dou comida aos pobres, chamam-me de santo. Quando pergunto por que eles são pobres, chamam-me de comunista."

"When I give food to the poor, they call me a saint. When I ask why they are poor, they call me a communist."
